The Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF 2010 Standards)

You are about to become a participant in the process that can result in achieving a nationally accredited qualification.

These qualifications can only be delivered by a Registered Training Organisation (RTO).

To be a RTO we need to meet the requirements of the Australian Quality Training Framework (AQTF 2010). This is assessed in the Australian Capital Territory, by the Accreditation and Registration Council Department of Education (ARC).

A newly registered RTO will be audited within the first 12 months of operation to ensure compliance to the AQTF 2010 standards and will be re-audited during its subsequent five year registration period.

These 3 standards and 9 conditions the auditing process are intended to provide the basis for a nationally consistent, high quality vocational education and training system.

Harassment and Discrimination Policy

We are required under Australian law to ensure that we provide a workplace that is free from all forms of harassment and discrimination (including victimisation and bullying) so that staff and participants feel valued, respected and are treated fairly.

We will ensure that all of our staff understand their roles and responsibilities in creating such a workplace, by a process of training, communication, mentoring and by example, and we will ensure all of our staff are aware of the processes and procedures for addressing any form of harassment or discrimination.

Staff and participants should be aware of the following definitions:

'Bullying' - is unwelcome and offensive behaviour that intimidates, humiliates and/or undermines a person or group. Bullying involves a persistent pattern of behaviour over a period time and may include verbal abuse, physical assault, unjustified criticism, sarcasm, insult, spreading false or malicious rumours about someone, isolating or ignoring a person, putting people under unnecessary pressure with overwork or impossible deadlines, and sabotaging someone's work or their ability to do their job by not providing them with vital information and resources.

'Confidentiality' - refers to information kept in trust and divulged only to those who need to know or are permitted to know.

'Discrimination' - is treating someone unfairly or unequally simply because they belong to a group or category of people. Equal opportunity laws prohibit discrimination on the grounds of sex, marital status, pregnancy, family responsibility, family status, race, religious beliefs, political conviction, gender history, impairment, age or sexual orientation. Victimisation is also treated as another ground of discrimination.

'Harassment' - is any unwelcome and uninvited comment or action that results in a person being intimidated, offended, humiliated or embarrassed. Equal opportunity laws prohibit harassment on the grounds of sex and race.

'Personnel' - refers to all employees of Mantra Training & Development.

'Racial Harassment' - occurs when a person is threatened, abused, insulted or taunted in relation to their race, descent or nationality, colour, language or ethnic origin, or a racial characteristic. It may include derogatory remarks, innuendo and slur, intolerance, mimicry or mockery, displays of material prejudicial to a particular race, racial jokes, allocating least favourable jobs or singling out for unfair treatment.

'Sexual Harassment' - is any verbal or physical sexual conduct that is unwelcome and uninvited. It may include kissing, embracing, patting, pinching, touching, leering or gestures, questions about a person's private or sexual life, requests for sexual favours, smutty jokes, phone calls, emails, facsimiles or messages, offensive noises or displays of sexually graphic or suggestive material.

'Victimisation' - includes any unfavourable treatment of a person as a result of their involvement in an equal opportunity complaint. Unfavourable treatment could include: adverse changes to the work environment; denial of access to resources or work.

Specific principles

- All staff and participants have a right to work in an environment free of any form of harassment and discrimination,
- All reports of harassment and discrimination will be treated seriously, impartially and sensitively. Harassment and discrimination, including victimisation and bullying, is unwelcome, uninvited and unacceptable behaviour that will not be tolerated,
- When management is informed of any harassment or discrimination it has the responsibility to take immediate and appropriate action to address it,
- In dealing with all complaints, the rights of all individuals should be respected and confidentiality maintained,
- Whenever possible, all complaints should be resolved by a process of discussion, cooperation and conciliation. The aim is to achieve an acceptable outcome while minimising any potential damage to our organisation,
- Both the person making the complaint, and the person against whom the complaint has been made, will receive information, support and assistance in resolving the issue,
- Victimisation is unacceptable and will not be tolerated. No person making a complaint, or assisting in the investigation of a complaint, should be victimised,
- Harassment or discrimination should not be confused with legitimate comment and advice (including feedback) given appropriately by management or trainers,
- Staff and participants should not make any frivolous or malicious complaints. All staff and participants are expected to participate in the complaint resolution process in good faith.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is the presentation, without any form of acknowledgment, the ideas or words of another writer as if they were your own. This is more than just another form of cheating. It is literary theft. It is stealing someone else's work.

For academics, plagiarism is one of the worst possible forms of dishonesty because it strikes at the heart of their work as scholars. Academic and intellectual reputations are built on the development and circulation of ideas which, in turn, depend on the intellectual honesty of its practitioners. Without an active commitment to intellectual honesty, scholarship becomes meaningless.

Your responsibilities as an author

As a student you will be expected to pay scrupulous attention to acknowledging where your ideas for your essay came from.

This means more than just documenting the relevant sources. It means acknowledging:

- Key ideas (including methods, maps, diagrams, graphs, tables and so on)
- Direct quotations
- Paraphrased material
- Any information that you did not think of for yourself.

For more detailed information on how to acknowledge your sources fully and properly go to How to quote.

Some tips to avoid plagiarism:

- Cite your source
- Ensure that direct quotes use quotation marks or are in block format so that your reader knows where a quote begins and where it ends
- When incorporating brief quotes into your own sentences begin with your words then weave your source's words into your sentence
- Ensure that you have presented the words exactly as they appear in your source
- For paraphrased material, provide acknowledgment as early as possible in your paragraph. It is unwise to draw on someone's work but only give the reference at the end of the paragraph, or when you have finished making your point
- Be extra careful with material taken from the internet.

Note that plagiarism is not about submitting the same essay (or assignment) for assessment in two different (but related) subjects.

That is certainly a form of cheating but it is not stealing the work of another; you cannot steal from yourself.

There is really only one rule to observe if you want to avoid being accused of plagiarism:

If in doubt, provide a reference

Employability Skills are skills that apply across a variety of jobs and life contexts. They are sometimes referred to as key skills, core skills, life skills, essential skills, key competencies, necessary skills, and transferable skills. Industry's preferred term is Employability Skills.

Employability Skills are defined as "skills required not only to gain employment, but also to progress within an enterprise so as to achieve one's potential and contribute successfully to enterprise strategic directions".

There are eight Employability Skills: communication, teamwork, problem solving, initiative and enterprise, planning and organising, self-management, learning, and technology.
